A specific for pain—Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, strongest, cheapest liniment ever devised. A household remedy in America for 25 years.

Died in the Hospital.

James Ross, the barber, who has been in business in Jackson for several years, occupying the premises adjoining the Metropolitan saloon, and whose serious illness was reported last week, died in the county hospital on Saturday morning last. He was rooming at Chinn's lodging house, and a few days prior to his death he was taken with delirium of a violent character. Nothing could be done with him, and having no means he was advised to go to the hospital. This, however, in his calmer moments he refused to accede. Thursday he seemed to be improving. But the improvement was merely temporary. Friday his condition was so much worse that he was taken to the hospital. He steadily grew worse, and passed away the following morning. Death is said to be due to pneumonia. Drink and cigarette smoking had weakened his constitution, so that he fell a victim to disease which under other conditions his vitality would have easily resisted. It is said he leaves a wife and children in San Francisco, also other relatives. The remains were forwarded to San Leandro for interment Sunday morning.

A Broken Back.

That pain in your back caused by lumbago, stiff muscles or a strain is an easy thing to get rid of. Ballard's Snow Liniment cures rheumatism, lumbago, sore and stiff muscles, strains, sprains, cuts, burns, bruises, scalds and all aches and pains. You need a bottle in your house. Sold by Rubser's City Pharmacy.

Hadn't Met for 48 Years.

Angus Fraser, a brother of supervisor D. A. Fraser of Sutter Creek, arrived from British Columbia, about two weeks ago, on a visit to his brother. The brothers had not met for forty-eight years, when they were but boys. Neither one would have recognized the other by sight as might be expected after such a long period of separation. Mr. Fraser's brother's home is in Vancouver, British Columbia, which is a thriving, bustling city. He has been located there for many years, with a family of grown up children, except one in Portland, Oregon. He expects to return to British Columbia in a few days.

James Smallfield Passes Away.

James R. Smallfield passed to the great beyond at the home of his sister in Jackson at five o'clock on Monday last after an illness of several weeks. He was an employee of the Kennedy mine for years. About three weeks ago his foot became troublesome owing as he believed to the paring of a corn so deep that it bled. Afterwards the foot became very sore and swollen, so that he was compelled to lay off from work. He worked a few days the beginning of last month, before he was compelled to quit. He continued to stay at his lodging house at John Chinn's, hoping that he would soon get better and be able to resume his employment. But the inflammation extended all up the leg, and Dr. Gall was summoned. He found the patient in a serious condition, with the recuperative forces at a low ebb. The affection of the foot was brought under control. Thursday last, he told those in the lodging that he was feeling badly, and that he had decided to go to his sister's home, on Court street. He was able to get around with the aid of a cane, and walked to his sister's residence. But he grew rapidly worse, and surrendered his life as above stated.

Deceased was a native of California, aged 44 years. He passed a large part of his days in Amador county, working in the mines.

The funeral was held on Wednesday, services being held in the Catholic church, Rev. Father Kearney officiating. Interment in the Catholic cemetery.

Deceased leaves two brothers, John, a resident of Jackson, and Thomas, who has been working in Tuolumne county; also a sister, Miss Kate Smallfield.

Moore for Assembly Makes Phenomenal Run.

E. B. Moore, the republican candidate for the assembly, made a remarkably strong run. One point in his favor, he was well known in both Calaveras and Amador counties, which cast more than nine-tenths of the total vote of the district. Another thing, he did not make the stereotyped platform canvass. He rather steered clear of the public gatherings, and as far as we know did not appear on the platform or make a public speech during the campaign. In Calaveras he was given a majority of 551, and in Amador 345, making 896 in the two counties. These figures will be somewhat increased by Alpine and Mono counties, both republican. This, we believe, is the biggest victory ever scored by a candidate for the legislature in this district.

Zumbiel, the secretary of the company, who has also been on the board of directors, and signified his desire to retire therefrom. W. K. Mathews, the heaviest stockholder, owning nearly one-half the stock, came up by automobile from Stockton, to attend, accompanied by E. A. Stent, of Tuolumne, and J. Lillenthal of San Francisco, both stockholders. John Raggio was also here, and is also of E. A. Stent and J. Lillenthal to fill the vacancies of the directorate. The board is now composed as follows: W. K. Mathews, president; J. Rainsford, J. Lillenthal, E. A. Stent interested in the Argonaut. There was no action taken toward the reorganization of the directors, but matters concerning the affairs of the company were freely discussed. At the conclusion of the meeting Messrs. Mathews, Lillenthal and Stent left in their auto for Sacramento.

Won His First Case.

Ernest Spagnoli tried his first criminal case before a jury in department 12 of the superior court of San Francisco recently, resulting in the acquittal of the accused. He represented the defendant, Jos. Kollar, who was charged with grand larceny, the prosecution being represented by the district attorney. After hearing the testimony the jury deliberated for about ten minutes, and thereupon returned a verdict of not guilty. Of course he was naturally jubilant at scoring such a decisive victory in his first jury case. He is connected with the eminent law firm of which Galpin is the senior member. He writes to his father D. B. Spagnoli, that he has a number of other criminal cases on hand.

How to Cure a Cold

Be as careful as you can you will occasionally take cold, and when you do, get a medicine of known reliability, one that has an established reputation and that is certain to effect a quick cure. Such a medicine is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It has gained a world wide reputation by its remarkable cures of this most common ailment, and can always be depended upon. It acts on nature's plan, relieves the lungs, aids expectoration, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. During the many years in which it has been in general use we have yet to learn of a single case of cold or attack of the grip having resulted in pneumonia when this remedy was used, which shows conclusively that it is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy contains no opium or other narcotic and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by Jackson Drug Store, Spagnoli, prop.

TIMBER SUPPLY OF UNITED STATES

"We are now cutting timber from the forests of the United States at the rate of 500 feet board measure a year for every man, woman, and child. In Europe they use only 60 board feet."

Few statements could be made which would better convince the average man that this country leads the world in the demand for timber. It is made by Treadwell Cleveland Jr., in a circular which treats of the conservation of the forests, soil, water, and all the other great natural resources, which has just been published by the United States Forest Service. In speaking further of the consumption of timber in this country, Mr Cleveland says:

"At this rate, in less than thirty years all our remaining virgin timber will be cut. Meantime, the forests which have been cut over are generally in a bad way for want of care; they will produce only inferior second growth. We are clearly over the verge of a timber famine."

"This is not due to necessity, for the forests are one of the renewable resources. Rightly used, they go on producing crop after crop indefinitely. The countries of Europe know this, and Japan knows it; and their forests are becoming with time not less, but more, productive. We probably still possess sufficient forest land to grow wood enough at home to supply our own needs. If we are not blind, or willfully wasteful, we may yet preserve our forest independence and, with it, the fourth of our great industries."

"Present wastes in lumber production are enormous. Take the case of yellow pine, which now heads the list in the volume of annual cut. In 1907 it is estimated that only one-half of all the yellow pine cut during the season was used, and that the other half, amounting to 8,000,000 cords, was wasted. Such waste is typical. R. A. Long, in his address on 'forest conservation' at the conference of governors last spring, pointed out that 20 per cent of the yellow pine was simply left in the woods—a waste which represents the timber growing on 300,000 acres."

"The rest of the waste takes place at the mill. Of course, it would never do to speak of the material rejected at the mill as waste unless this material could be turned to use by some better and more thorough form of utilization. But in many cases we know, and in many other cases we have excellent reason to believe, that most, if not all, of this material could be used with profit. It is simply a question of intelligent investigation and, more than all, of having the will to economize."

"But there are other ways to conserve the forests besides cutting in half the present waste of forest products. The forests can be made to produce three or four times as rapidly as they do at present. This is true of both the virgin forests and the cut-over lands. Virgin forests are often fully stocked with first-class timber, but this stock has been laid in very slowly, on account of the wasteful competition which is carried on constantly between the rival trees. Then, too, in the virgin forests there are very many trees which have reached maturity and stopped growing, and these occupy space which, if held by younger trees, would be laying in a new stock constantly. As regards the cut-over land, severe cutting, followed by fire, has checked growth so seriously that in most cases reproduction is both poor and slow, while in many cases there is no true forest reproduction at all at present, and there is but little hope for the future."

"I have been somewhat covetous, but Doan's Regulators gave just the result desired. They act mildly and regulate the bowels perfectly."—George B. Krause, 306 Walnut Ave., Altoona, Pa.

A Poetic Comparison.

The poet was favoring a friendly soul with his last verses, says a writer in St. James' Budget. The verses were descriptive of a beautiful girl. The poet read:

"Her hair was massed in flowing curls. The color of a whisper."

This made the listener "sit up." "What's that?" he said. "Tend that again."

"I thought you would say something about that," the poet answered. "I don't want to appear egotistical, but that little phrase gives some scope for the exercise of the mind."

"In what way?"

The poet laughed.

"Don't you see," he said, "how beautifully that describes the shade of her hair? Every poet speaks of golden hair or raven locks. To be a success one must be original. Well, she did not have golden hair. It was nearly golden, and I convey the impression by means of that one word."

The other still looked puzzled.

"You have heard," said the poet patiently, "that silence is golden?"

"Yes," the other admitted.

"Well," resumed the poet, "if silence is golden what would a whisper be? It would be nearly golden, wouldn't it?"

The poet laughed again. The other was sitting down and could not stagger, so he laughed too.

Indian Burials.

The Indian method of burial was to fasten a corpse upon cross sticks supported by poles in the ground or in the boughs of the treetops. Here the air and the elements silently disposed of the lifeless clay until in a year or so but little remained to bear evidence of a tomb, perhaps some broken sticks in the top and a few scattered beads or human bones beneath the burial place. I cannot conceive of anything more pitifully gruesome than an Indian burial ground of this type. I have seen them in the fall of the year, when the winds were shaking and swaying the platforms and wringing the leafless trees, flaunting the burial rags like signals of distress from the dead and whistling through and over the whitening bones and neglected remains of those who had many a time withstood the tempest and storm when the breath of life stirred within them.—Army and Navy Life.

The Pelican.

The pelican is not an attractive bird. He offends both the eye and the nose. But he is commendably regular in his habits. The parent birds catch fish and after eating their fill deposit the others in their pouches under their bills and carry them to their young. These pouches will hold from three to eight pounds of fish. They are elastic and when distended to their utmost nearly touch the ground. When empty, the pouch lies close up under the big bill and is merely a mass of wrinkles. It is this pouch that gives the pelican his characteristic and disagreeable odor, caused by particles of decaying fish. The pelican's legs are short and strong, and its feet have large webs. It is not a fast swimmer or a rapid flier, but it is practically tireless in both air and water. On land it is awkward and unwieldy.

How Frozen Insects Revive.

Experiments in reviving frozen insects by a naturalist show some surprising results. A large cecropia moth, frozen in the center of a snowball until it was perfectly brittle, revived in twenty seconds when held near a stove. Several newly hatched moths revived in a similar manner after being frozen stiff and then thawed out. Similar experiments with ants, butterflies and house flies gave the same results. But the naturalist noticed that recently hatched insects resist cold better than older ones.

The Organ.

Like most important inventions, that of the organ is veiled in mystery. The invention of the organ has been attributed to Ctesibius, a barber of Alexandria, about 250 B. C.; also to the celebrated Archimedes, 220 B. C. It is certain that the organ was brought to Europe from the eastern or Greek empire and was applied to religious devotions in churches about A. D. 650.

Out of the Hymnbook.

A minister, having given out his "notices," was about to read his hymn when he was reminded of one notice he had forgotten. Stopping, he made this announcement, apologizing for his forgetfulness. Then, much to the amusement of his audience, he began to line out the hymn as follows: "Lord, what a thoughtless wretch am I!"—Judge's Library.

To Simplify English.

It is the vowels which are the great difficulty of English pronunciation. We want our vowel sounds standardized for us—all the pronunciations, with the correct intonations, set down for us in some intelligible and easily understood form.—Country Life.

The Genius.

Mark Twain said of genius at a New York banquet: "A genius, as an old lady in Hannibal once explained to me, is a man who knows more'n he can find out and spills vittles on his clothes."

Handel's Philosophy.

Handel, when the curtain would rise upon a nearly empty house, would say soothingly to his associates: "Ach, never mind; the music will sound all the better!"

There are two ways of meeting a trouble—either give it no attention at all or give it a great deal of attention promptly.—Atchison Globe.

Amador County Descriptive Article

Amador county comprises an area of 548 square miles. It lies on the western slope of Sierra Nevada mountains, and embraces within its territory all the diversity of valley, foothill, and high mountainous lands.

Climate.—The climate of the populous portions of the county is as genial and healthful as can be found anywhere in California. As climate is one of the most valuable assets of this favored state in attracting population, Amador stands second to no county in this regard. It should, and no doubt will in time, when its climatic advantages are more thoroughly understood and appreciated, become a health resort not only for those in less favored states, but for the residents of other parts of California. The temperature alone the central portion rarely falls below 30 degrees above zero in winter, and as rarely rises to 100 degrees in the summer. Snow seldom falls in the settled districts, and never remains on the ground for more than a few hours. Of course, in the high mountain regions of eastern Amador the snowfall is very heavy—which is characteristic of the entire Sierra Nevada range. The summer season is always accompanied with cool nights; permitting of sound, refreshing slumber. Fogs are rare, cyclones are unknown, thunderstorms are infrequent.

Gold Mining.—The county, although rich in other sources of wealth, comparatively untouched, is noted principally for her quartz mines. The deepest gold mines in America are located here. The Kennedy mine is now taking gold in liberal quantities from quartz extracted from a depth of over 3000 feet below the surface, with every indication that the pay-ore extends to a much greater depth. Since the discovery of gold, the county has contributed fully $100,000,000 to the world's supply of the precious metal. The mines are still yielding at the rate of about two million dollars annually. Nearly all of this wealth is produced by eight or ten mines operating on what is called the "mother lode," stretching clear across the county in a north-easterly direction a distance of twenty miles. The mines aggregate between 400 and 500 stamps, and furnish employment for over 1000 miners. This industry is still in its infancy. The unexplored territory, even along the main gold belt, is far in excess of the ground that has actually been worked or prospected. The county offers to-day one of the most inviting fields to be found anywhere in the world for the investment of capital in the fascinating business of gold mining, not alone along the mother lode, but also in the almost untouched mineralized country of the east belt, some ten or twelve miles from the main lode.

Besides gold, we have copper, deposits of pottery, coal, marble, slate, limestone, granite, and soapstone or talc—all undeveloped.

Agricultural Capabilities.—The agricultural possibilities equal, if not excel, the mineral riches. The valley lands will produce anything that can be grown in the most favored sections. In the foothill lands all kinds of deciduous fruits thrive; also all kinds of vegetable are raised where irrigation is practicable along the numerous water courses. Further up in the mountains, at an altitude of 2000 to 2500 feet, the soil is admirably adapted for apples and potatoes. A ready market for many times the quantity now raised of these commodities can be found in the various mining towns.

Grape culture and winemaking are becoming important industries, both the grapes and wine commanding a better price than the product of the lowland.

Land is cheap compared with other California lands. Improved farms may be secured for one-fourth the price current in some places. Unimproved lands can be had from $5 to $10 per acre. It does not require a fortune to buy a small ranch. There is room for a large addition to our agricultural population. Vast tracts now devoted to cattle ranges might be made the homes of hundreds of prosperous farmers.

Amador has a population of less than 12000. Three fourths of this is concentrated in a strip of three miles above and below the mineral belt.

Jackson, the county seat, has about 2500 inhabitants, and is an incorporated city of the sixth class. Other towns are Sutter Creek, Amador City, Drytown, Plymouth, Volcano, Pine Grove and Oleta. Ione City is the metropolis of the valley section, a thriving town of 1000 inhabitants.

The community is law-abiding. Educational facilities are excellent. A schoolhouse is within easy reach of nearly every family. There is one high school, located at Ione.

The assessment roll for 1907 is $5,500,793, and the tax rate for both state and county purposes $2 on the $100.

The Southern Pacific has a branch railroad running to Ione. From this point the Ione and Eastern railroad extends 14 miles further to the mining section.

The various religious denominations and fraternal organizations are well represented.

Why Kelly Didn't Sleep. "One night I went in late to Father Dempsey's hotel. Every bed was full, and there were 200 men sleeping on the floor of the recreation room. Each one of them had a newspaper under him to keep off the dust of the floor. I pointed to one little Irishman and remarked that he did not seem to be resting well."

"What's your name, my man? Father Dempsey asked him."

"Thomas Kelly, your reverence."

"You don't seem to be resting well, Mr. Kelly."

"I'll get to sleep after awhile, your reverence," he answered.

"I don't believe you will unless you change your bed. You're sleeping on a Westliche Post," answered Father Dempsey.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Caught the General. One of the regular army officers tells a story of how the old stringent army regulations once went against General Scott. One wet afternoon that soldier was caught in the rain in Washington. He was in full uniform and was well known, so, no cab being near, he borrowed an umbrella. Arriving at his hotel, an underofficer approached him and calmly remarked:

"General, you will consider yourself under arrest for eight days for carrying an umbrella while in full uniform."

His Solitude. "Is it a fact that your mother-in-law threw herself out of the third story window and you did nothing to restrain her?"

"Excuse me, I went to the first story to catch her, but she had already passed."—Diavolo Rosa.

Riches. It is not what we have, but what we can do without, that makes us rich. Socrates, seeing a large loaf of valuable pass one day, exclaimed, "I am most happy, for there are so many things that I do not want!"

The Maroon Monster. Friend—I suppose you run down a great many people? Motorist—Well, sometimes I run them up. Friend—Run them up? Motorist—Yes; last night I ran two men up a tree.—Chicago News.

A Change. Mrs. Larkin—I want a little money today, Fred. Mr. L.—I'm very glad of that. Mrs. L. (surprised)—Why are you glad? Mr. L.—Because generally you want a good deal.

"Rose at 5 and had a sonnet and a glass of cold water for breakfast."

"Retired early in the evening, without supper, as I feared the neighbors would be annoyed by the rattling of the knives and forks."—St. Louis Republic.

Failed to See. "Poor man!" said the kind lady. "How did you go blind?"

"Well, mum," answered Tired Treadwell, "do foist time dat I noticed it was when I was out lookin' fer work."—Chicago Record-Herald.

SOLDIERS IN BATTLE

How Men Feel and Act With Death All About Them.

THE STORY OF A PRIVATE.

With the Beginning of the Fight Comes Fear, but That Soon Passes Away in the Eagerness For Killing. Varying Effects of Wounds.

A narrative of the battle of Solferino as told by a veteran survivor to Robert Shackleton appears in Harper's. It is, word for word, a chapter of history as seen by a man in the ranks. Incidents which impressed him are curious:

"We halted, and a Tyrolean lying on the ground cried out: 'I am dying. Give me to drink.' Whereat my companion stooped to offer him a flask, and as he stooped the Tyrolean struck savagely at him with his bayonet, but my companion jumped back, and it missed him, and he said, 'You Tyrolean, you said you wanted a drink before you died, and now you shall die without the drink.' And he stuck his bayonet through him as a boy would stick a pin through a fly.

"The fighting soon began again, and it was very fierce. It was soon that we came to know that we were to capture a little village and the hills about the village. The village was named San Maritino, and there were walled barns and gardens, and the Austrians were very strong there.

"The bursting of the shells was very bad. Sometimes all of us close by would be thrown down and be covered with mud and earth, but most of us would jump up again, not wounded, but always there were some who would not jump up again, because they were wounded or dead.

"At the beginning of a battle a soldier feels afraid. At the beginning of this battle I felt afraid, and I know that other men felt afraid, though it was not our first battle, and we knew what it was to be under fire.

"So it was that at the beginning we commended ourselves; we felt like death, but soon that passed away, and we thought no more of death, but only of the killing of the Austrians.

"All around me men were killed. There were heads and arms blown off, and men flew into pieces like the smashing of a jug. But we did not care. We thought nothing of it. I do not know that we even knew we saw such things, but some of them came to me as I sat with you and talk of that long day. We did not notice, and we did not think that at any moment we too might have our heads blown off or be smashed into little pieces like the breaking of a jug.

"Once, when we rushed over the big guns and killed the men who still fought with us, we turned the guns to fire on the Austrians as they flew away, but they had driven bits of steel into the touchholes, and so we could not fire them. They were of a courage, those Austrians.

"Only once in all that battle did I think much of what I saw or heard, and that was when there was the terrible screaming of a captain who had his foot shot off. He twisted and turned as he cried out, and it was a very bad sound. But it is just as it chances. I saw many men who were hurt worse than that captain and many who were blown into little bits, but I did not trouble about them. It is just if it chances so.

"It is very often that a man does not know that he is hurt. I remember that once there was a man near me with a great hole in his forehead, but he ran right on with us with his bayonet, and I thought, 'He will fall dead.' But after that I saw him no more, for there was always the fighting.

"The storm and the blackness, they made of us a great mixing. Yes; it was a very great tangling, for all lines were lost, and I know that sometimes Austrians struck at Austrians and sometimes Italians struck at Italians, for we were in a very great mixing and very fierce in the blackness of that storm.

"We were told to lie down and sleep. So we lay down where we were, among the dead and the wounded, among the Italians and the Austrians.

"And we slept. Yes; we were tired, for we had fought hard for all that long, long day, and on that hill that at last we had gained we slept, and we gave no heed to the dead men or the wounded.

"The wounded they made very great cries, and there were men sent to go among them with lights. Some were surgeons, and some were men to carry them to the field hospitals. But the most of us we lay there and slept, and we were very tired, and we knew that with the morning there might be another fight."

"Rose at 5 and had a sonnet and a glass of cold water for breakfast."

"Retired early in the evening, without supper, as I feared the neighbors would be annoyed by the rattling of the knives and forks."—St. Louis Republic.

AUKUM.

Nov. 3.—Another pioneer has crossed the great divide in the person of Benjamin Tyler of Oleta, who died at his son's residence on Monday evening at six o'clock. Mr. Tyler has lived a half century within a few miles of Oleta, at what was widely known as Tyler's ranch. In the early 60's he was engaged in lumbering, having a saw mill on his place. He therefrom furnished a great deal to the surrounding country. He came to the state, if I remember rightly in a talk with him several years ago, in 1850 and settled down to mining just above Nevada City. He said that at time the long tom and rocker were the only source of saving the gold mined out from the beds of the streams. In its primitive wildness men of that day were untutored in any good way of saving the precious metal that so many had come seeking. Dirt he said that would pay five or ten cents to the pan was cast away as refuse. One progressive man seeing his chance of making a little fortune, secured an option on all the refused dirt that so many had cast away as unworthy of working. He dug the first long ditch of that vicinity being in length three or four miles, and invented the sluice that is now so commonly used by miners and proceeded to wash up the cast away dirt that he had secured an option on. The consequences were, he made a fortune out of the venture. No man was hardly better known than Mr. Tyler. He was a man of sterling qualities being the best of citizen.

To-night is election night many a man will lose his political head at the polls, for half only win.

Nov. 5.—The Native Sons and Daughters tendered Mr and Mrs E. G. Amick a farewell surprise party last Monday night, prior to their departure for their new home in Sacramento. The evening was spent in singing, speeches and various other amusements until ten o'clock, when all returned to Gassner's where a tempting spread was indulged in. In behalf of the Native Daughters, Mrs. Minor presented them with half a dozen silver tea spoons, and expressed regret in losing them from our midst.

Mrs. Rena Kush, who has been visiting in the city, returned home Tuesday.

Miss Elsie Martin went to Martella Thursday morning, where she will assist in the office work during the absence of Mr. Coffman.

Mrs. W. D. Amick, who has been absent for about a week, visiting friends in the city, returned home Wednesday.

Miss Lottie Miller returned to Jackson last night, in order to resume her work at the National hotel.

Pay Knapp and Mr. Bacon employees of the Preston school, went to Oleta Tuesday to visit their folks for a week.

Jake Haller has purchased the old Kruger place, and is now having the hedge removed, which will greatly add to its appearance.

SUTTER CREEK.

Nov. 5.—Capt. W. S. Cooledge, an old resident of this town, died in Lodi Wednesday morning, after an illness of about three years, caused by paralysis, he was about 80 years of age. Mr. Cooledge and family went to Lodi about two years ago to reside, his daughter, Miss Belle Cooledge, being a teacher in the high school at Lodi. Honest and upright, genial and true in his intercourse with his fellow man, he made and retained the friendship and respect of the people among whom he had lived for so many years. The army of old pioneers are one by one falling by the wayside like autumn leaves, and in a few years hence, their lives and work remembered only in the hearts of those who loved them best. Mr. Cooledge leaves a widow and daughter to mourn his loss. The funeral will take place this Friday afternoon at Lodi.

From Our Exchanges.

After the public meeting last night congressman W. F. Englebright met with about a dozen of those who have fled homesteads in this county and have been denied the privilege of making final proof in support of their claims. Mr. Englebright heard their statements and discussed the points at issue, and promised to give his personal attention to straightening out the tangle which is depriving them of their rights. That is the kind of a man to have in congress.—Nugget.

The Indians of the county have been congregating at the Bull creek rancheria during the week to dance, listen to the story tellers of the tribe, play ball and feast. The question of the Diggers going on a reservation will also be discussed.—Union Democrat.

The big Dodge crusher will be started up at the Prevolcanic Channel Gold mine tomorrow. Mechanics have been busy for weeks past in the construction of the mill and installation of the machinery, and at last all is in readiness to begin the crushing of gravel. Hundreds of tons of gravel from the ancient river channel is ready for the crusher, and as this gravel is known to carry coarse gold in large quantity, the owners are sanguine that good returns will come from its working. The Prevolcanic is situated near Pacific, about sixteen miles up the State road from Placerville, and the successful working of this mine will stimulate the development of gravel claims now lying idle in that section. The full capacity of the crusher installed is 150 tons per day, but it is intended to put an average of about half that quantity through daily.—Nugget.

On Wednesday of this week two men were discovered in the act of robbing the plates of the mill at the Gwin mine by the superintendent. One of the men escaped, though the superintendent took a shot at him, but the other was caught and held while the sheriff was sent for. Sheriff Jones and deputy Crockett left at once for the scene, on receiving word, and brought back the man who gives the name of Finck, and claims to be a German. The man is quite well known about here, and is generally supposed to be an Austrian. He is now reposing in the county jail.—Prospect.

True politeness is not the product of a refrigerator or a cold storage plant. A man may follow the rules and regulations of society, and the book of etiquette, and still be quite a disagreeable fellow. But his is only a sham politeness, for true politeness includes kindness, good nature, sincerity, and is a help and a pleasure to those who come in contact with it, while the counterfeit article frequently has the opposite effect on all concerned.

Dyspepsia is our national ailment. Burdock Blood Bitter is the national cure for it. It strengthens stomach membranes, promotes flow of digestive juices, purifies the blood, builds you up.

GLOBE SIGHTS.

Nature is always stronger than culture.

No one ever thinks that a boy may be tired.

Did anyone ever know a man to apologize to his wife?

Nearly every man accepts this fiction: "Everybody knows me."

A man never does anything in the way a woman says it should be done.

Women never blow their noses, except when alone with their families.

It is necessary to meet good luck half way, but bad luck will chase you.

A woman never gets along with the driver of a milk wagon longer than three months.

What has become of the old-fashioned man who was satisfied with a "good living?"

Talk about your sensational trials: Wait until you hear the recording angel's testimony.

You can praise one man to another without offense, providing the man who is praised is dead.

Ohio claims to be the mother of presidents, but Nebraska is having a Mother Hubbard made.

We would like to know a man who can put a piece of gum in his mouth, and keep from chewing it.

When a man begins to tell a story, and introduces it by asking if we have heard it, we can get away.

After a pretty girl has been married about four years, she begins to look as if she might be her sister's mother.

Human nature never changes. If a man promises to do better than men have done in the past, do not believe him.

When there has been a death in a family, none of the members act quite serious enough to please the neighbors.

There are a good many things a man would like to buy a dime's worth of, but can't get without taking the whole box.

A Kansas widower will trifle a long time, but, after a proper period of mourning, a Missouri widower means business.

The fountain of youth consists in working every day, eating regularly and moderately, and sleeping nine hours at night.

There is now some hope for the human race: It is said that physicians will not open a knife for less than fifty dollars.

The bed slat style of architecture must be the fashion: Every woman's magazine is filled with methods for "reducing the hips."

They always decide on the way back from the funeral that the widower will marry again, and that the widow will if she gets a chance.

You may think you have learned nothing with the years, but you have learned a great deal if you don't say anything when you are mad.

"You have a complaint against me," a Missourian said at this office today. It turned out that he referred to a bill of a dollar and forty cents.

When a woman says to her husband: "You know I haven't a bit of jealousy in my nature, but I would like to know, etc.," look out for storms.

It is said that by adroit management, a woman at an afternoon reception can find herself in the crowd going out to the dining room at least six times.

Perhaps the women make such efforts to get to heaven for the reason, according to the pictures of angels in loose robes, there are no corsets worn there.

Just before breakfast every morning Saint Peter works hard and fast charging those with falsehoods who complain that they "never slept a wink all night."

A Missourian was in town today, telling how he was suffering with neuralgia. "I came over," he said, "after a rial of whiskey. Nothing but whiskey does me any good."

So many varieties of cakes, cookies and crackers are put up in fancy boxes that children are being brought up without ever seeing their mother make cookies, receiving as a reward for being good, a cookie man.

In addition to doing the cooking, and the dishes, and the sewing, keeping the house straight and caring for her children, there is that paramount task every wife has of keeping her husband from making a fool of himself.

The piano seems to be a great nuisance abroad as well as at home. The following advertisement recently appeared in a London paper. "Adolphus, return to your Matilda. The piano has been sold." What a history that little advertisement may hide!

In a time of sorrow never make the mistake underestimating the comfort to be found in the Old Rut. Preachers and friends do not say anything about it in their prayers and words of sympathy, but the fact remains that there is no grief-killer like the Old Rut.

DON'T HIDE YOUR MONEY

The man who hides his money because he assumes to be afraid of banks forgets that it was the bank that perhaps made the prosperity possible which gave him his money making opportunities. Without the bank there would be no large commercial or business enterprises possible, salaries and wages would be low, and money making impossible. It is the bank in the exercise of its function in gathering together the funds of a community and putting them into active use that has brought prosperity.

To hide money is the hinder and hurt prosperity by restricting the circulation of money.

ELECTION IN JACKSON.

Not only was the election during the campaign the quietest known in a national contest, but throughout the day of the election and during the evening when the returns were being received there was scarcely a ripple of excitement observable. There was none of the hurrahing which has been characteristic of times past. Only a few could be got out to take notice of the returns from the big eastern states. The only excitement was over the supervisorship, when John Strohm was receiving the congratulations of his supporters and friends over his signal victory, and taking them around to a jubilee over the outcome. As for the presidential contest, the very first telegraphic message was decisive of the result. It showed conclusively that the drift in New York and the middle west was strongly toward the republican ticket, and that settled it. The Bryan local politicians lost all interest in the fight. They were down and out for the third time, and a more crestfallen combine could hardly be imagined. They wended their disconsolate way homeward at an unusually early hour, considering the occasion, no doubt wondering what new-fangled scheme could be concocted in times to come by Bryan and democracy in a fresh effort to fool the voters. On the republican side there were no outbursts of feeling. It was no more than they expected, no more than they had a right to expect from intelligent men exercising the sacred right of suffrage for the good of the nation. About half-past nine, the telegraphic wires to Jackson got mixed up, and all communication was thereafter shut off. But it made not the slightest difference. Enough dispatches had been received to show that Tait had been elected president by a tremendous popular vote, and the republican cause had triumphed all along the line. The country was safe, and all commercial and business interests were placed in a position to move along as prosperously in the future, as they have been enabled to do in the past.

T. K. Norman and Family Leave.

T. K. Norman, who has spent all his days in his county, most of the time in Jackson, left yesterday morning with his family to take up his permanent residence in Sacramento. He served a four year's term as sheriff and tax-collector of this county, and had previously engaged in the soda business which he kept going during his official term under the management of his son. Upon his retirement from office, he again took hold of his private business, but the work was very exacting, and he decided to sell out to his competitor, Frank Podesta, which he did about a month ago, renting the premises for a location he concluded to settle in Sacramento city. He bought a handsome residence on I street at No. 2508, where the family will make their future home. The family consists besides himself and wife, one son, William, and two daughters, Misses Mayme and Elsie Norman. Mr Norman has not decided upon going into business, and does not intend to do so at present any way. Financially he is in comfortable circumstances, and can support his family easily on his income.

The departure of this family is a loss to the county, and particularly to Jackson where they have made their home so long, and where they are so highly esteemed by all who made their acquaintance. The good wishes of the community go with them, and the universal hope is that the change for their new home will fulfill their expectations in every way.

SERVANTS' SIGN LANGUAGE.

Peculiarities of Employers and Tourists Noted by Marks.

Servants and hotel porters in many cities of Europe have a sign language as complete as that of the American tramp.

"It is not generally known," said a courier, "that servants are in the habit of giving useful tips to their successors and to the man who delivers the groceries and meat by marks on the back entrance. In most of the big Paris flats and apartments, such as Americans like to take for the season, the back door is literally covered with barely perceptible signs which nobody but the initiated can understand.

"A freshly engaged domestic knows exactly what to expect, whether his masters are easy or hard to please, whether it is 'monsieur' or 'madame' who is hard to get along with. Other signs tell whether the food is good or bad, whether the work is difficult or not, etc.

"The boy from the grocer's or the baker's or the butcher's will also be informed whether he can expect a big tip or not.

"The system is even more developed among hotel servants. A family arriving from Italy, after having refused to give what some Italian porter considered a sufficient tip, will have the fact advertised in every hotel he visits in Switzerland or France. A little mark on the trunk is all that is needed."—Philadelphia Ledger.

AMERICAN FRENCH.

The Struggles of a New Yorker in a Paris Restaurant.

He gazed complacently at the gay labels on his trunks. "Funny how you hear in Paris"—so he continued his reminiscences of travel—"our thin American accent struggling with the sonorous French tongue. You hear queer mistakes, too—no end of 'em. The queerest I came across was made by a New York man.

"This tourist at the Chatham wanted to say, 'I am hungry.' He should have said, 'J'ai faim.' Then the waiter would have brought him a meal at once. What he did say was:

"'Je suis fameux, garcon.' He said there, 'I'm famous, waiter.' And the waiter, impressed, bowed and smiled. 'Congratulations, sir.'

"No food came. He must have made an error, so he tried again:

"'Garcon, j'ai une femme.' That meant he had a wife. The waiter said he was sure she was a winner.

"Rather red now, he took a third dive:

"'Je suis femme.' This time the New Yorker said he was a woman.

"And madam dresses in this way for comfort's sake?" the waiter inquired, with a gallant smile.—New York Press.

"Chuck It, Duke!"

While the Duke of Connaught was in Cairo he went for a stroll one morning, and on his way back to his quarters he came face to face with an old Englishman wearing the ribbon of the Indian mutiny on his breast. The duke stopped and spoke to the man about his military service for some little time. Presently the man said, not knowing, of course, to whom he was speaking, "Are you in the army yourself, then, sir?" The duke smiled and admitted that he was. "Getting on all right?" was the next question. The duke smiled again and said that he had not very much to grumble at, on the whole, though perhaps he was not doing quite so well as he could wish. "No, and you never will, my boy," was the surprising retort of the veteran. "What you want in the army today is either brains or a tremendous amount of influence behind you. You may take my tip, old chap, and chuck it!"—London T. P. O.

Fencing With Umbrellas.

Recently a French publication printed a picture of some American girls fencing with umbrellas and stated that they were trying to acquire thus the necessary skill and assurance to parry, with a simple gesture, an attack of Apaches.

It also stated that this sport was not born in America; that for several years in France a noted fencing mistress, Mme. Guillemot, at the same time that she taught fencing with the sword for hygienic reasons and for personal defense, also taught her pupils to "play" with the umbrella.

The article finishes by saying that it is certainly "piquant" that this modern application of an ancient sport was taught by a Parisienne long before America claimed the original idea.

Spirit of the Open Life.

The great charm of scenery and the country life is the moral feeling that seems to pervade it. This has prevailed through all English literature from Chaucer to Wordsworth and down to our own times. It has cast its spell over almost all of our Canadian poets, who have wooed nature in her most secret haunts and studied her minutest caprices.—Montreal Witness.

A WOMAN'S TACT.

And the Way She Explained Her Diplomacy to Her Husband.

It being a holiday, the blundering man made calls with his wife. The first place they went the hostess said, "Julia is engaged."

"Is she, indeed?" said the man's wife radiantly. "Which one did she finally accept?"

The next place they were informed that Margaret was engaged, and again the man's wife beamed sympathetically and murmured: "Is she, indeed? Which one did she accept?" At the third place it was the news of Jessie's engagement that was broken to them. As before, the man's wife put the question, "Which one did she finally take?"

On their way home the man said: "Why did you ask 'which one' every time a new engagement was sprung on us? Are those girls so attractive that men were falling over each other in the scramble to get them for their wives?"

"Not at all," said his wife. "I don't suppose either of them ever had but one offer, and it is a wonder she got that. I shouldn't be surprised if the men back out even now before the wedding day. But you see, dear, I had to be diplomatic. Those people can do me many favors. The surest way to make myself solid with them is to pretend to think their girls so popular that every man in town was crazy to marry them."

"With my opportunities downtown," groaned the man, "if I had your genius we'd be millionaires inside of six months."—New York Sun.

FOES OF THE LEVEES.

"People who know little about our system of levees, the artificial banks built to confine the flood waters that pour into the Mississippi, no doubt imagine that the heavy rains are the only enemy with which the levees have to contend," said a Baton Rouge man.

"On the contrary, the levees, both during times of flood and low water, are subject to the incessant attacks of living foes, the destructive work of which costs millions of dollars. These foes are alligators, turtles, muskrats, field rats, fresh water terrapin and crawfish. Of all these burrowers that prey on the levees, excavating within them goodly chambers or tunnels, the crawfish do the most damage, with the turtles and terrapins a good second. The harm done by the alligators is comparatively small.

"In repairing the banks crawfish holes are often found of immense size. It is these hollow spaces that in time of freshets cause a caving in and break of the levees, which of course bring on an inundation of all the adjacent country. The worst part of the business is that no way of exterminating these pests has yet been found, and the only thing to be done is to try to keep them away from the banks as much as possible."—Baltimore American.

The Inquisitive Woman.

Street car conductors regard inquisitive women passengers with superstitious dread. The other day a fuse blew out in a Broadway car, and that car was hatched on as a trailer to the one ahead. Presently a woman began to ask questions.

"What would happen," she said, "if the fuse were to blow out in that car ahead? What would become of us? Would the car ahead of that be able to drag both of these cars?"

"I don't know," said the conductor. "But don't worry. We won't have a chance to find out. A double accident of that kind has never happened to a car of mine yet, and it isn't likely to happen once in a hundred years."

Just then there came an explosion ahead, and both cars came to a standstill. The fuse had blown out.

"Confound that woman!" growled the conductor. "That is all her fault. This wouldn't have happened if she hadn't asked so many fool questions. She's a Jonah."—New York Times.

It Paid.

A little boy of five years, playing with his sister one day, leaned too far out of the second story window, lost his balance and fell into the yard below. Very miraculously he escaped being injured, and his parents and friends were so delighted that they gave him quite a number of pennies, nickels and dimes.

The next day, after he recovered from the shock of the fall, he was counting his money and on seeing his little sister enter the room exclaimed: "Gee, Gladys, look at all the money I got for falling out of the window! Why don't you try it?"—Delineator.

Manhood's Estate.

It is a very foolish convention which lays down that we are grown up when we have reached our twenty-first birthday. The real majority is reached when we begin to earn our own bread and butter and to bring forth the light which has been fostered in us by the care of others for the last ten or fifteen years. Self dependence and self reliance—that is the real manhood.—Isis.

GRANTING PATENTS.

Invention as Distinguished From Mere Mechanical Skill.

A patent cannot properly be granted protecting the product of mere mechanical skill as distinguished from invention. Difficulty is frequently experienced in distinguishing between the two, and the supreme test for determining whether a particular device is the result of mechanical skill is not whether an ordinary mechanic could make the device if it were suggested to him, but whether he would make it without suggestions save those which are prompted by his skill and knowledge of his art.

For example, if a man constructs out of iron a machine which had previously been made out of wood he does not thereby become an inventor in a legal sense, because everybody knows that any constructor can build a machine out of iron instead of wood. But suppose that gunpowder had just recently been discovered and that the man who invented it had applied for and obtained a patent upon it.

He might have claimed, "I combine saltpeter, sulphur and charcoal in a certain way and produce a startling result," and it would be no answer, if an action for infringement were brought, for the infringer to say that every chemist could make the powder after he had been shown how, for, if every chemist did not have the knowledge as well as the skill, the originating of the powder constituted invention.—Exchange.

PECULIAR TREES.

They Yield Bread, Butter and Milk, Soap and Candles.

The breadfruit tree of Ceylon is very remarkable. Its fruit is baked and eaten as we eat bread and is equally good and nutritious. In Barbuda, South America, is a tree which, by piercing the trunk, produces milk, with which the inhabitants feed their children. In the interior of Africa is a tree which produces excellent butter. It resembles the American oak, and its fruit, from which the butter is prepared, is not unlike the olive. Park, the great traveler, declared that the butter surpassed any made in England from cow's milk. At Sierra Leone is the cream fruit tree, the fruit of which is quite agreeable in taste.

At Table Bay, near the Cape of Good Hope, is a small tree the berries of which make excellent candles. It is also found in the Azores. The vegetable tallow tree also grows in Sumatra, in Algeria and in China. In the island of Chusan large quantities of oil and tallow are extracted from its fruit, which is gathered in November or December, when the tree has lost all its leaves. The bark of a tree in China produces a beautiful soap. Trees of the sapindus or soap berry order also grow in the north of Africa. They are amazingly prolific, and their fruit contains about 38 per cent of caponin.

A Bachelor and a Widow.

"Bachelors," said the widow, "are the most sensitive people on earth. At any rate, the bachelors I know are. I dined with one not long ago. During the first part of the meal he seemed uneasy.

"If any of my friends see me," he said, "they will think I am dining with some other man's wife."

"Why?" I asked.

"He pointed to my wedding ring."

"Shall I take it off?" I asked.

"Would you mind?" said he.

"Not at all," I said and slipped off the ring.

"Since then when going anywhere with that bachelor or any other bachelor I save him from embarrassment by taking off my wedding ring before we start. I find they appreciate my consideration for their feelings. Now, if that isn't sensitiveness raised to the ninth power I'd like to know what it is."—New York Press.

The Flow of Rivers.

The flow of rivers, as might be supposed, is the slowest at the bottom of the water and highest at the top. The average velocity of the entire stream is found, as a rule, at about six-tenths of the depth. The friction of the bottom which retards the movement of the deepest water is much greater, relatively to the whole volume of the stream, in a shallow river than in a deep one.

Womanlike.

"In my opinion," said Jones, "a woman's club to be successful should aim at something far removed from female suffrage."

"I do not agree with you," retorted Miss Strong, with set lip. "That alone should be its object."

"Exactly, but if it aims at something else it is more likely to hit that."—Philadelphia Press.

Electric Power from the Earth.—The Push of Sunbeams.—Sunken Rivers.—A Safe Gun.—Radium and Earth History.—A Snake's Legs.—A Bad Habit Investigated.—The Streaks on the Moon.—Heart Beat Records.

Great local differences in the electrification of the earth are known to exist, and a German engineer suggests that with better knowledge it may be possible to make mining for electricity as profitable as digging for coal or metals. In experiments in two comparatively shallow borings, he has obtained weak currents between a small rod of brass or iron immersed in the water of the pit and a similar rod buried near the surface. He urges that contractors, mining companies and others take up the problem, and perform such experiments as testing the current between a 60-foot copper cylinder at the bottom of a boring of 3,000 feet or more and a similar cylinder buried in moist ground at the surface, also investigating the charges to be obtained from long iron pipes buried in the ground. It seems quite possible that means may be found for charging accumulators from earth currents, thus giving us a new source of power, light and heat.

The conclusion that light exerts pressure was reached by Clerk Maxwell 35 years ago, but many attempts to measure the pressure gave only doubtful results. It was at last shown by Lebedew that in the tropics the sun's rays have a pressure of about three pounds per square mile. The sun's attraction upon the earth is millions of times greater, but the attraction acts upon the mass while the total radiation pressure depends upon the surface exposed, so that when matter is reduced to fine dust the radiation pressure may exceed the attraction. Thus it is that the sun's rays push the nebulous tail of a comet away from the denser head.

The submarine bed of the French river Adour has been followed by Prof. Edward Hull, F. R. S., 50 miles out to sea and that of the Congo he has traced 100 miles into the ocean.

The electric gun, which shoots without powder or projectile and is already a popular penny-in-the-slot toy in Paris, is not designed for warfare or hunting, but serves well for target practice. The gun, which may be of any kind, is mounted on a special stand, while the special target is placed 20 or 25 yards or more away. The target is perforated with 19 holes in concentric circles and four outside holes for stray shots, and behind each hole is an incandescent lamp in addition to a bell at the central hole. Each lamp is fed by a separate battery cell having a contact button in a horizontal plate in the base of the stand. When the gun points exactly to the bull's-eye, a needle projecting downward is over the central button, but as the gun's position is shifted the needle is moved over other buttons. On pressing the trigger the needle is forced downward, the contact so made lighting up the lamp aimed at. The recklessness with which these guns are "fired" in public places arouses the indignation of the uninitiated, and there is constant dodging to avoid the bullets supposed to be flying in the air.

Recognizing uranium as the grand parent of radium through the intermediate change to ionium, Prof. John Joly, in his British Association address, showed that the transformation has been so slow that the uranium on earth has diminished scarcely one per cent in 100,000,000 years. Though the heaviest element known, most of the uranium is near the earth's surface. The radium is widely scattered and the oceans prove to contain about 20,000 tons, derived from the uranium brought down by rivers during the geological ages. The heat from radium at present may be making good all that the earth is radiating into space. This implies a very long past and future earth-life, and supports geologists in their estimates that the world is much older than physicists have been willing to admit.

On dissecting a South American box constrictor, 13½ feet long, Capt. Musgrave has been surprised to discover two rudimentary legs, only two inches long but having hip and knee joints, hidden under what appeared to be two distorted scales.

Reading in bed, though a common practice, is not usually commended. The reasons for disapproval seem to have been not clearly understood, though it is known that with oil lamps there is serious risk of fire—an objection that cannot be raised when daylight or the modern electric light is used. Dr. Hugo Felchenfeld, of Berlin, has undertaken recently to determine just how—if at all—the habit is harmful. Injury to the eyes proves to be the real danger. The light is often insufficient or in a position to dazzle, and the book is usually held too close and seldom so that both eyes are used equally. Myopia and other defects are thus caused or increased. Young persons, whose eyes are not fully developed, are especially liable to be affected, and it is urged that boys and girls under eighteen should never be permitted to read in bed. With increasing age, of course, the likelihood of inducing errors of refraction is lessened. Old and bed-ridden persons cannot well be denied the luxury of reading in bed, and for them the chance of harm can be made small by attention to the quality and position of the light.

The peculiar phenomena streaks of radiating from centers on the moon—such as those from the craters Tycho and Copernicus—have perplexed astronomers. H. G. Tomkins, a British astronomer, suggests that the rays represent extensive incrustations of alkali left as the water evaporated from solutions, and he finds like incrustations in India, Persia and Africa. Radiations are produced on the sides of hills, the alkali deposits on the mountains of the Punjab, in India, being strikingly similar in form to the lunar streaks.

By means of an ingenious combination of the stethoscope, microphone, phonograph and galvanometer, a Dutch physiologist obtains a photographic record of the heart-beats. It is claimed that the photograph not only shows the skilled operator when the heart is unsound but tells him the disease.

WOMEN WERE SCARCE.

There were few women in the California mining camps in the old days, and the advent of an emigrant wagon with a woman in it caused a furor, as is proved by the following incident from the reminiscences of former Senator William M. Stewart: "Women were so scarce in California at that time that this was sufficient to arouse the whole camp. The 'boys,' as we were called, were scattered along the coyote diggings for a distance of about four miles, and when anything unusual happened the words, 'Oh, Joe!' would be passed along the whole line. When I saw the feminine raiment I raised the usual alarm, 'Oh, Joe!' and this called the attention of the miners on Buckeye hills, where I was, to the clothesline which had attracted my notice. They gathered around on the hill, nearly surrounding the covered wagon and its contents. The rush of the boys in the immediate vicinity to see the wonderful sight attracted those farther away, and in less than ten minutes two or three thousand young men were anxiously watching the wagon, clothesline and fascinating lingerie. In alarm the man that belonged to the woman inside stuck his head out of a small tent beside the wagon. I assured him that no harm was intended, but that we were very anxious to see the lady who was the owner of the clothes. This aroused her curiosity sufficiently to induce her to pull the curtain of the tent aside so that her face could be discovered, but not fully seen.

"I then proposed that we make a donation to the first lady that had honored our camp with a visit. I took from my camp a buckskin bag, used for the purpose of carrying gold, and invited the boys to contribute. They came forward with great eagerness and poured out of their sacks gold dust amounting to between $2,000 and $3,000. I then proposed to appoint a committee to wait on the lady and present it. The motion was unanimously carried, and one of the gentlemen appointed on the committee suggested myself as chairman. I took the sack of gold and went within about thirty feet of the tent and made as good a speech as I could to induce the lady to come out, assuring her that all the men about her were gentlemen, that they had seen no ladies for so many months and that the presence of one reminded them of their mothers and sweethearts at home. I told her that the bag of gold was hers on condition that she would come out and claim it. Her husband urged her to be brave, but when she finally ventured out about halfway the cheers were so vociferous that she was scared and ran back.

"She repeated this performance several times, and I kept moving slowly back far enough to get her away from the little tent so the boys could have a good view of her. I suppose half an hour was occupied with her running back and forth while the boys looked on in admiration, when I finally gave her the bag, with all the good wishes of the camp. She grabbed it and ran into the tent like a rabbit. The next morning the wagon, oxen, man and owner of the inspiring apparel were gone, and we never heard of them in after life."

Where the Funds Went.

As an instance of the happy go lucky character of the early dinky the following extract from the Albany (N. Y.) city records may prove interesting:

"In 1826 the trustees of the African Baptist church applied to the common council for permission to circulate a public subscription paper in aid of the funds of the church. It was moved to lay the petition on the table, pending investigation. For the reason that the principal part of the funds secured by a previous subscription for the African church had been used by the trustees in 'treating themselves to hot suppers.'"

Presidential Succession.

During the first session of the Forty-ninth congress (1885-7) the presidential succession was fixed as follows: In case of the death or removal of both president and vice president the secretary of state shall act as president until the disability of the president be removed or a president is elected. If there be no secretary of state, the secretary of the treasury shall act as president. And the succession passes in like manner to the secretary of war, the attorney general, the secretary of the navy and the secretary of the interior. In the order here given.

THE NATIONAL ELECTION.

The result of Tuesday's election must be exceedingly gratifying, not only to the republican party, but to the solid commercial interests throughout the country. The democratic campaign under Bryan was waged along absolutely impracticable lines. He posed as the special champion of the working classes, thinking to capture their votes—knowing that they had enough to elect—by the promise of good times for them, and hard times for the big employers. But the laboring men refused to be fooled by such impossible notions. Bryan made the fatal mistake of trying to hoodwink the level-headed workingmen in the world, with the assistance of a few labor union agitators, who imagined they could do a whole lot in swinging the voters to their way of thinking. A few hidebound politicians of the democracy really believed Bryan had a good shown to win, and staked their money on the event, and lost, as they deserved to lose in such an issue.

But the ballots show a tremendous landslide for the republicans. Taft is elected by majorities almost rivaling the vote for Roosevelt four years ago. He has swept the following states, California, Connecticut, Delaware, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming, with 301 electoral votes, with the two southern states of Maryland and Missouri still in doubt. The official count may yet place these two states, with their 26 votes, in the republican column. Bryan has only 153 votes. He carried only Nebraska, Colorado, and Nevada, outside of the south, and the two last named states are still debateable, owing to the close vote. Congress is strongly republican in both branches. California sends eight republicans to congress, and gives 80,000 plurality for Taft. The democratic party is not only defeated, but utterly routed—bankrupt alike in principles and in votes. It has gone to pieces on the rocks of Bryanism.

With this issue the Amador Ledger enters upon the fifty-fourth year of its existence.

"IN A BAD WAY."

Many a Jackson Reader Will Feel Grateful for this Information.

When your back gives out; Becomes lame, weak or aching; When urinary troubles set in, Your kidneys are "in a bad way." Doan's Kidney Pills will cure you. Mrs May Lubkeman, living, at 1901 South California street, Stockton, Cal., says: "I am more than pleased with the results that followed the use of Doan's Kidney Pills in my case. I suffered terribly for a number of years from kidney disease and lumbago. I doctored a great deal and took many home remedies, but never received a particle of relief. I was unable to stoop or bend on account of pains in my back and the kidney secretions were so frequent in action as to cause me to rise many times during the night. I became worn out and my health was in a terrible condition when Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention. They effected a complete cure and I am glad to give them my recommendation." (From statement given in 1902.)

Confirmed Proof—On June 28, 1907, Mrs Lubkeman confirmed statement she had previously given saying: "I can add nothing to the statement I made in 1902 except that the cure has proved a permanent one."

Plenty more proof like this from Jackson people. Call at the City Pharmacy and ask what customers report.

A Bold Step.

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and so has published broadcast and openly to the whole world, a full and complete list of all the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated medicines. Thus he has taken his numerous patrons and patients into his full confidence. Thus too he has removed his medicines from among secret nostrums of doubtful merits, and made them Remedies of Known Composition.

By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that his formulas are of such excellence that he is not afraid to subject them to the fullest scrutiny.

Not only does the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, biliousness and all catarrhal diseases, wherever located, have printed upon it, in plain English, a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works, of all the different schools of practice, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. One of these little books will be mailed free to any one sending address on postal card or by letter, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same. From this little book it will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral agents or other poisonous or injurious agents, and that they are made from native, medicinal roots of great value; also that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, nervous, over-worked, "run-down," nervous and debilitated women, were employed, long years ago, by the Indians for similar ailments affecting their squaws. In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was known to the Indians as "Saw-wort." Our knowledge of the uses of not a few of our most valuable native, medicinal plants was gained from the Indians. As made up by improved and exact processes, the "Favorite Prescription" is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the woman's functions, correcting displacements, as prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion, overcoming painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health. Sold by all dealers in medicines.
